Inside This Document

Because we recognize and value the diversity of our workforce, we have designed a benefits program that helps meet individual needs. The program provides the flexibility to accommodate the different lifestyles of a diverse workforce. We also recognize that people not only differ from one another, but that they have different needs at different times in their lives. Our benefits program offers a range of choices in different benefit areas, so you can protect your health and your family's health, and provide for their security both now and in the future.

This document, together with the component benefit documents and contracts, constitutes both the formal plan document and the Summary Plan Description (SPD) for the Pearson Inc. Welfare Benefit Plan, which consists of various health and welfare programs. It describes the options available to you, services that are covered and how benefits are paid. It also includes information on filing claims, on coordinating your benefits with those of other plans and on how to continue coverage if you leave the Company. In addition, there is a chart showing common life events and the changes in benefits you can make as a result of them. Finally, the document describes your rights under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA).

IMPORTANT: This document constitutes a Summary Plan Description in accordance with the applicable requirements of ERISA, and as such has been written in a manner that is intended to be easily understandable and to summarize the benefits available to you under the Plan. While every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of this Summary Plan Description, the component benefit documents and contracts will prevail in case of discrepancy between this document and the component benefit documents and contracts. In addition, the Company reserves the right in its sole discretion to amend, modify or terminate any benefit offered under the Plan at any time and for any reason. Also, please keep in mind that the Plan, any changes to it, or any payments to you under its terms, does not constitute a contract of employment with the Company and does not give you the right to be retained in the employment between you and the Company. No one speaking on behalf of the Plan or the Plan sponsor can alter the terms of the Plan. You and your beneficiaries may obtain copies of the component benefit documents and contracts or examine these documents by contacting the Plan Administrator at the number and address set forth in the Additional Information About Your Benefits section of this Summary Plan Description.

Eligibility

The Benefits-at-a-Glance chart at the beginning of this section shows the benefit programs available to you as an employee of Pearson. Individual operating companies may have different classes of employees, and the list below may or may not apply to your company. If you have any questions about whether you are eligible to participate in a program, please contact Pearson People Services or your local Human Resources Generalist.

Generally, you are eligible to participate in a program if you belong to one of the following classes of employees:

- Regular Full-Time employees: those who are regularly scheduled to work 35 or more hours a week
- Regular Short-Hour employees: those who are regularly scheduled to work 20 to 34 hours a week on a year-round basis, with no specifically defined end-date.
- Term of Project Full-Time employees: those who are scheduled to work on a “project” anywhere from six to 24 months and work 35 or more hours a week, with the understanding that employment will terminate when the project is completed.
- Term of Project Short-Hour employees: those who are scheduled to work on a “project” anywhere from six to 24 months and who are regularly scheduled to work 20 to 34 hours a week, with the understanding that employment will terminate when the project is completed.

Independent contractors and other persons who are not treated by the Company as employees for purposes of withholding federal employment taxes are not eligible to participate, regardless of any contrary governmental or judicial determination relating to such employment status or tax withholding.

Eligible Dependents

Many of the benefit programs offer coverage for your family members. Family members who are eligible to participate include:

- Your legal spouse
- Your children, up to the end of the month in which they turn 26.
- A dependent child of any age who is physically or mentally disabled and depends on you for support, if he or she was disabled before age 19 and depended on you for support at the time of disability.

Your eligible dependent children include:

- Your biological children
- Your legally adopted children (and children placed with you for adoption)
- Stepchildren

- Foster children
- Any other child for whom you are a legal guardian, who lives with you in a parent/child relationship and whom you claim as a dependent on your federal income tax return

If your child is disabled, you must submit proof of his or her disability within 31 days after he or she would otherwise no longer qualify for coverage. Contact Pearson People Services for more information.

Under the Health Care FSA, any dependent you can claim on your federal income tax return (without regard to their gross income) is an eligible dependent. For example, your parent may be an eligible dependent under the Health Care FSA, even though he or she is not an eligible dependent under the medical program.

Under the Dependent Day Care FSA, eligible dependents include (1) your dependent children under age 13 and (2) a disabled spouse or dependent who is physically or mentally incapable of self-care and who live with you for more than one-half of the year. To be eligible, you must be able to claim the individual as a dependent on your federal income tax return.

Refer to the definition of Eligible Dependent in the “Important Terms” section of this SPD for more information.

If You and Your Spouse Both Work for the Company

If you and your spouse both work for the Company, you each need to make benefits decisions. Under the medical, dental and vision care programs, you can each elect Employee Only coverage or one spouse can waive coverage and be covered as a dependent under the other spouse’s plan. However, you cannot be covered as both an employee and a dependent.

If you have eligible dependent children, one of you can waive coverage under the Plan and the other can elect family coverage.

Annual Open Enrollment

Each fall, the Company conducts an open enrollment period during which you choose your benefits for the next calendar year. When you enroll, you make three types of choices. You will need to choose:

- Which plan options you want,
- Which dependents, if any, you will cover, and
- How much coverage you need.

The benefits you choose during the annual open enrollment period will cover you and your family for a full year. You will have the opportunity to change your elections at each annual open enrollment period. If you have benefits available from another source, such as your spouse's employer, you should compare those plans and costs with the Pearson benefits and take the best advantage of your combined offerings.

When Coverage Begins

The coverage you elect during the fall annual open enrollment period becomes effective on January 1 of the following year. Your coverage will be in effect for a full calendar year.

If you are a new employee, you must enroll for benefits within 31 days of employment. Your coverage will be retroactive to your first day of work. If you do not enroll within 31 days, you will receive the default package of benefits which is described in the benefits orientation materials.

Making Changes to Your Benefits during the Year

Generally, you can change your benefits elections only during the annual open enrollment period. However, if you have a qualified change in status ("Life Event"), you may be able to change your elections before the next enrollment period. Events that the IRS considers to be qualified changes and for the purposes of the Pearson Plan, a Life Event") includes:

- Marriage, divorce, annulment or legal separation when allowed under state law in the state in which you reside
- Birth or adoption of a child or placement of a child for adoption, gaining a step-child, becoming legal guardian of a child
- Death of your spouse
- Death of your child or your spouse's child
- A child's change in dependent status due to age
- Loss of a dependent's dependent status under the Plan
- Qualification of a Medical Child Support Order
- Your or your spouse's or dependent's gain or loss of other coverage as a result of a change in employment status or work schedule (including the beginning or end of a leave of absence, including a leave of absence under FMLA)

- Change in coverage under a non-Pearson sponsored plan due to (1) a change in status under that plan or (2) a differing election period (note: these events will not allow a change under the Health Care FSA)
- Change in your provider for purposes of the Dependent Day Care FSA
- Change in the cost of care for purposes of the Dependent Day Care FSA, if the provider is not your relative
- Change in your employment status resulting in a change in eligibility (e.g., change from full-time to temporary)
- Termination of employer contributions to your spouse's plan (note: this will not allow a change under the Health Care FSA)
- Change in your or a dependent's residence if the change is in connection with a move outside of a coverage area
- Expiration of non-Pearson sponsored COBRA coverage for yourself or a dependent
- Eligibility for Medicare or Medicaid.

The benefit changes you make must be on account of and correspond with the change in status. The determination of whether you have experienced an event that would permit an election change and whether your requested election change is consistent with such event shall be made in the sole discretion of the Plan Administrator.

Benefit changes under the medical, dental, vision, health care FSA and dependent day care FSA are consistent with the event only if they (i) result in your or your dependent's gaining or losing eligibility to participate in this Plan or the plan of your dependent's employer and (ii) are on account of and correspond with the gain or loss of coverage. For example, if you give birth to or adopt a child, you can add the child to your medical coverage, but you would not be able to drop medical coverage. Elections to increase or decrease long-term disability coverage in response to a Life Event are deemed to correspond with the change.

If you wish to make a change in your benefits, you must do so within 31 days of the Life Event. Any timely election change will be effective as of the date of the event.

If you do not make any changes within 31 days of your Life Event, you will have to wait until the next annual open enrollment period to do so. Note that life insurance elections can be changed at any time, subject to evidence of insurability rules.

Please refer to the Life Events Action Chart beginning at the end of this section for more information.

Once you change your benefit elections due to a Life Event, your payroll deductions may change as well.

Special Enrollment Rights

If you are declining enrollment for medical coverage for yourself or your dependents (including your spouse) because of other health insurance coverage, you may in the future be able to enroll yourself or your dependent in the Plan, provided that you request enrollment within 31 days after such other coverage ends and such other coverage was lost due to (i) the loss of eligibility for such coverage, (ii) the cessation of employer contributions for such other coverage, or (iii) the cessation of COBRA coverage. In addition, if you have a new dependent as a result of marriage, birth, adoption, or placement for adoption, you may be able to enroll yourself and your dependents, provided that you request enrollment within 31 days after the marriage, birth, adoption, or placement for adoption.

To request special enrollment or obtain more information, contact Pearson People Services.

Cost of Coverage

You and the Company share in the cost of some of your benefits. For other benefits, the Company pays the full cost. Your contributions toward the cost of your benefits are determined by several factors. Depending on the benefit, your contribution is based on the programs in which you enroll, whom you choose to cover and, in some cases, your age and annual base pay.

Refer to the Benefits-at-a-Glance chart at the beginning of this section to review the tax treatment of each benefit option under the Plan.

Any cost for coverage will be deducted from your paycheck in equal amounts throughout the year. If you make pre-tax contributions, your contributions are deducted from your pay before federal and most state taxes are taken out. That means you pay taxes on a smaller amount of money, and your disposable income is higher. However, certain states may not recognize these pre-tax contributions for state income taxes purposes. For example, if you are a resident of New Jersey, you will pay personal income taxes on your pre-tax contributions in New Jersey. If you are a resident of Pennsylvania, you will pay personal income taxes on your pre-tax contributions to the Dependent Day Care FSA.

Even though pre-tax contributions reduce your taxable income, they will not affect other benefits related to your income. For example, basic life insurance benefits will be calculated using your full base pay before pre-tax contributions are deducted.

However, if you make pre-tax contributions and earn less than the Social Security wage base, your Social Security taxes will be lower, and your Social Security benefits could be reduced slightly. For many employees, however, the immediate tax benefits of participating in the Plan on a pre-tax basis will outweigh any reduced future Social Security benefit. Since each employee's situation is different, you may wish to consult with your personal financial advisor to determine how any such reduction in benefits may affect you.

Definition of Pay

In some cases, the benefit plan options are expressed as a multiple of pay and in some cases, your cost for coverage is based on your pay. The term pay as it applies to the different coverages is defined in the Important Terms section of the Document.

Life Events Action Chart

As a general rule you may not make changes to your benefit elections during the calendar year. You are, however, permitted to make changes during the year if you experience certain life events. These are personal changes such as marriage, the birth of a child, or employment-related changes such as moving from part-time to full-time status.

The following matrix outlines what benefits may be changed during the calendar year due to specific life events. The far left column shows the event and the remaining columns describe the changes that may be permitted in each benefit plan due to that event. Any changes you make must be consistent with the actual circumstances of your life event.

Bear in mind that all benefit changes must be made within 31 days following the life event (for example, the birth of a child) to be effective for the remainder of the year.
